QUITE a war among the dealers in Benares opium in Hongkong has commenced within the last week or two. When the importers—such as Messrs. Sassoon, Bellis & Co., and others—sold opium formerly to the Chinese middlemen, the latter had the pick of the entire stock. About three years ago this system was altered, and they only got the choice of three for every chest they bought. Lately the number has been reduced to two, and they object. In consequence they have combined, and purchased 400 chests direct through their Calcutta agents, experimentally. On the other hand the great importers have begun to compete with the middlemen by sending small quantities to Canton, Coast Ports, Formosa, &c., a thing they never did before. It is a question of who has the longest purse.

LAST week news was received here to the effect that in consequence of frauds committed by opium dealers in Calcutta several banks had been involved in very serious loss. Telegrams received to-day show that the frauds were committed by an employee in the firm of E. S. Gubbay & Co., named Solomon. The custom among the merchants in Calcutta is to buy opium at the Government sales, and pay for it as removed. Solomon, we understand, forged a document purporting to show that the firm held 1700 chests so bonded, and obtained very large advances on them. When the Bank sought to remove the opium, however, the fraud was discovered. The prisoner was arrested as he was about to leave for Australia. The Bank of Bengal is said to have lost—unless the money was found on the prisoner—Rs. 900,000, and the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank has suffered to the extent of Rs. 300,000.

THE American ship Santa Clara, Captain R. W. Fuller, arrived at Nagasaki on the 26th ult., from Philadelphia, after a voyage of 172 days, bringing a cargo of 50,000 cases of kerosine oil, consigned to the China & Japan Trading Co., Ltd. Several days previous to her arrival she was reported to have been seen off the coast, and on the afternoon of the 25th the captain arrived in one of the ships' boats, with the unfortunate news that his ship had been ashore and required assistance. The German steamship Ingo, the only suitable vessel available, was at the time in the neighbourhood, and proceeded to Shanghai. Arrangements were made for her to take anchors and chains (the Santa Clara having lost both anchors and cables in bringing up) and render any assistance necessary. The Ingo left at a late hour the same night, and proceeded towards Oshima, where she anchored until daylight the next morning, when the Santa Clara was found to be afloat, but jammed in, in a small bay, on the mainland, about four miles distant. On arriving at this bay the Ingo had to back in, stern first, and after she had taken the tow-ropes on board the hawsers which held the ship in her position were cut, and the steamer steamed ahead, arriving at Nagasaki about 4.30 p.m., with the Santa Clara in tow.

In a special report on the subject the Acting Health Officer for Singapore says that the bakeries of that town are, with one or two exceptions, in a most deplorable and insanitary condition. The floors of but few are paved; some are mud, and the majority trodden earth, all equally dirty. The tables are generally caked with stale flour on the top, the sides and legs being in a filthy condition; one had a large heap of refuse beneath it. The walls throughout are black, dirty and stained with the marks of the cockroaches that disport themselves amid the loaves and flour. Eight bakeries are dark and badly ventilated, having low ceilings and stifling atmosphere; men working here must, and do, sweat profusely on the floor and dough; comment is unnecessary. In a few the latrines are on the same level and open directly into the bake-house, the raised temperature of the place tending to draw effluvia. In another house there was a gall tub of urine standing in the middle of the work tables upon which dough was being mixed. The tables which receive the dough are universally used as dining tables, and frequently become temporary bedsteads; in one place he found two coolies, suffering from severe fever, sleeping upon them. The bread before being baked is generally wrapped in cloths, these cloths usually are very dirty, and one baker told him he changed them once a year; he owned to having them washed occasionally. If an act were passed making it compulsory for bakeries to be properly paved, fitted, lighted, and well ventilated, he believed that cleanliness would follow; at least the sanitary authority would have far more control over them.

MESSRS. Butterfield & Swire inform us that the Ocean Steamship Co.'s steamer Dredgion, from Liverpool, left Singapore for this port yesterday afternoon, and is due on the 10th inst.

SUPREME COURT.

IN SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

(Before Mr. A. G. Wise, Acting Puisne Judge.)

A BROKER'S CLAIM.

Judgment was given in the case of H. A. Shirazee v. Cho Lip Chee, heard last Monday. Messrs. Wotton and Denoon were for the plaintiff, and Mr. Reece for the defendant.

His Lordship said that the claim originally was for $2,150, but was afterwards reduced to $740.62, which sum the plaintiff claimed to have paid to Messrs. Roza Brothers as surty for the defendant in a contract. Plaintiff's evidence was to the effect that on the 6th July last he sold 50 Sugars at $302 to the defendant, for Roza Bros, for the 30th September. Defendant signed the contract note, but when plaintiff took it to Messrs. Roza they objected to the name. Plaintiff therefore returned it to defendant, who requested him to guarantee it. He endorsed it, and guaranteed the fulfilment of the contract. On due date defendant failed to take up the shares, and Roza Bros. sued Shirazee as guarantor, but the action was settled by a cash payment and the execution of some promissory notes. Shirazee now sought to recover that amount. The question his Lordship felt that he had to decide was whether there was due performance of the contract, and whether defendant was liable on Shirazee's guarantee. If he credited Shirazee's statement defendant probably would be liable, but he was not inclined to do so. He did not believe that Shirazee even went back to defendant and agreed to guarantee the contract—he took the note which defendant signed to Roza Bros and when they refused the name he voluntarily guaranteed it. His Lordship was convinced that frequently, when sellers objected to the names offered by brokers, the latter, not liking to go back and tell the sellers, signed "for the concerned," at their own risk. Shirazee, no doubt, thought that he would do it, because things were pretty good just then, but his Lordship's belief was that he did so without consulting the defendant at all. He therefore gave judgment for Cho Lip Chee, with costs.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

(Before Mr. Fielding Clarke, Acting Chief Justice.)

A TIMID BANKRUPT.

Chan Chu Shan, who was adjudicated a bankrupt on his own petition, last Monday, was called upon to undergo examination. As he did not appear

Mr. Dennis explained that the man was afraid to come, for fear of being arrested. He asked that a day might be fixed.

His Lordship said that he would order a warrant for his immediate arrest. Get a warrant issued immediately. Mr. Registrar let him be brought up, if he is caught, to answer for contempt of Court. Do you know where he is, Mr. Dennis?

Mr. Dennis did not know "personally." He could not assist the Court, as he believed the man was out of its jurisdiction.

His Lordship suggested that he should be advised to come back.

Mr. Dennis promised to try, but desired that the man should be granted a week's protection from arrest.

His Lordship replied that he was protected by law, whilst coming to Court. He had not the slightest doubt that the man was staying away to avoid examination.

Mr. Dennis—I have told him he was protected whilst coming here, but I could not promise him protection after that.

His Lordship declined to come to terms with the absentee, but inquired if any one present knew anything of him.

After some hesitation a young Chinaman, who said he was a student from Canton, admitted having told Mr. Dennis's clerk that the bankrupt was not likely to attend. In cross-examination he said that the debtor had assigned a lot of debts to him.

The Registrar said that those constituted almost the whole of the assets.
